Network Radio Broadcasts to Feature nanoTX'08 Speakers and Exhibitors in D/FW and Houston

Weekly broadcasts on the BIZ Radio Network is titled The Promise of Tomorrow and will spotlight the business of emerging and nano technologies.

Dallas, Texas. Jan. 15, 2008. The business community now has a fresh source to keep abreast of emerging technologies. Radio broadcasts aired weekly on the BIZ Radio Network in two of the nation's biggest markets, Dallas/Fort Worth and Houston, will begin Saturday, February 2, from 2 to 3pm, and will be a regular feature each Saturday onward.

"These broadcasts are exclusive to BIZ Radio," says Colonel Mason, veteran reporter and talk show host who is moderating the programs. "After initial radio broadcast, each program will then be immediately available worldwide online.

One of the show's sponsors is tinytechjobs, who will be airing the latest open job positions in nanotechnology, MEMS, microtechnology, biotechnology, and information technology during the broadcasts.

Other content will include top minds revealing emerging and nano technologies; how business merging with science is shaping our future; what are the hot trends and new products ready to come out of the lab and into the marketplace; where the smart business money is going; how micro and nanotechnology is shaping medicine, energy, defense, industry; what to watch for; who's going places and why.

Another sponsor of the broadcasts is nanoTX'08, the nanotechnology conference and trade expo taking place during International Nanotechnology Week at the Hyatt Regency Dallas convention hotel in October.
